The Experience

Anton Valley

According to geologists, the Anton Valley (El Valle de Antón) is the crater of a volcano. Due to the altitude it tends to have a milder and nicer climate. The main nearby touristic attractions include the Waterfall of El Macho (also known as El Salto de Tomasín), thermal waters, a botanical garden called “El Níspero”, which includes a collection of rare species of amphibious. This region is known around the world for the golden frog, which is a Panamanian endemic species, in danger of extinction. Some of the forest surrounding the town are protected by the law.

The Valley is also known for a hill called “La India Dormida” (The Sleeping Indian), which is the reason of an ancient indigenous legend due to the fact that it seems to have the shape of a woman laying down. The region is a perfect place where to relax, while at the same time, it has restaurants, which can please any visitor due to the fact that the cuisine here has improved because of the great number of tourists, which visit this destination.

The San Carlos' Lagoon

At an hour and a half from Panama City and only 25 kilometers (15 miles) from the Interamerican Highway, this spot is the perfect place to break away from your daily routine and stress of the city. With an extension of 5 acres the touristic location represents a nice place where to try fishing any of the 14 known species found in the lagoon. Its banks can become a nice place where to set up a camp with the option of places where you can make a wood fire. The location also has a restaurant, which opens until 8:00 pm.

El Guayabito

Located at the skirts of one of the highest mountain ranges of the region, this destination represents a good place where to stop if you're riding a motorcycle is the Bar-Restaurant founded by a biker himself. With the best view of the Valley of San Carlos, to Playa Blanca, you can enjoy the swimming pool, areas for wood fires, horses, BBQ outdoors.
